St Jude's celebrated 'Safer Internet Day 2019' on Tuesday 5th February. The theme this year was 'Our Internet, Our Choice' and focused on teaching us about consent and the importance of giving or receiving permission before carrying out actions online.

Our assembly was led by the Digital Leaders who helped us to think about when giving or receiving permission might be important, both online and offline. The children then enjoyed a variety of lessons and activities throughout the day, ranging from online safety quizzes, drama and role play to creating safer internet posters.

A selection of children had the opportunity to share their feelings about consent and permission in our diary room. The edited video was shared with the whole school in Celebration Assembly on Friday. Also, there were a range of questions placed around the school building which invited our children to think and respond, giving their personal opinions and suggestions for a safer internet.

St Jude's continues to hold online safety at the heart of our ethos and approach to computing and technology. If you would like further details on this year's theme go to www.saferinternet.org.uk
